6 Disclosures by Debtor:

7
8 1. How did debtors get in trouble that caused them to declare Chapter 11.

9
10 The house market was booming and couple of years ago the debtor bought 2
11 properties; single house in Snohomish and town home in Issaquah as an investment 12 properties. They were hoping to make some money for our future retirement. In order to 13 do that, they took out equity loan from their primary residence house in Redmond to do 14 down payments for the two new houses. When they bought it, Vladimir Gurevich was 15 working at Verizon Wireless and was making about $72,000 a year and Ludmila Gurevich
16 was making about $32,000. Therefore, their income was quite good and they could afford 17 to buy 2 homes as an investment. It worked very well for them first year but then house 18 values started slowly declined every year, and by 2007 value of their house valued
19 dropped substantially.. When they tried to refinance the investment houses no one wanted 20 to help them because property value declined so much that there was no equity more left 21 in the houses. Also their main home loan was variable (or non-fixed) and the underlying 22 mortgage company started increasing monthly payments on the houses.

23 In the meantime their income has dropped. In the end of 2007 they then started a new 24 business – they were distributors for Travel club. Things were going well at the beginning 25 but by summer of 2008 because of declining economy their business starting declining

1 very sharp and they had huge loses. They tried to survive in business and started putting 2 more and more on credit cards but by the end of August of 2008 they had to shut down the 3 business and ended up with huge debts. They were trying to work out deals with banks and 4 get some kind of monthly loan payments reductions but once again, no one wanted to help
5 with loan modifications. Unfortunately so much came at once: they lost their business, 6 theirr mortgages has been increased, and their income has been reduced. They could not 7 keep up anymore with their monthly payments and had no choice but declare Chapter 11.

8 2. What are the debtors expect to get out of Chapter 11.

9 Since they declared Chapter 11, they are not using any credit cards anymore. They 10 started live only on what they can budget. A recap of their US Trustee monthly reports,
